EPR Programmes of Nokia Networks:

Brief on Collection Mechanism

As a part of warranty or Maintenance contract, Faulty boards / Equipments are received from the customers. Faulty units are received at the Central Warehouse. Subsequently depending on serviceability, units are sent to respective repair centers. During repair process, some of the units cannot be restored. Based on the contract with the customer, Nokia need to return the non-repairable units back to customer(s). A portion of the non-repairable units are held back by Nokia. These faulty units are handed over to authorized e-waste recycler – E-Parisaraa empaneled by Nokia for disposal as per regulatory guidelines.
